

The carousel was, especially to a child, an awesome and magical building. Modern amusement rides, built as they are on speed and thrill, will never capture the grace and beauty of those hand-crafted animals: studs, mares and ponies, whirling in their endless circle to the tinkling music, their manes flying, teeth bared, hooves raised, frozen forever in time.

