

Some one hundred and thirty years earlier, in 1783, La Verendrye had dubbed the area "Grand Marais", meaning Big Marsh. Today, both French and English titles exist side by side giving tribute to both beach and lagoon which combine to give the area its unique charm.

